In spring, for eleven weeks, international artists will transform the car park next to the Gropius Bau into "Radical Playgrounds": radical playing fields on which Florentina Holzinger, Tomás Saraceno and Céline Condorelli, among others, will create an art parcours following the motto "From Competition to Collaboration". The art parcours, curated by Joanna Warsza and Benjamin Foerster-Baldenius, will open on the weekend of 27 and 28 April as an artistic amusement park that explores the socially formative as well as the political potential of play.

With Edgar Calel, Alice Chauchat, Céline Condorelli, Massimo Furlan, Florentina Holzinger, Ingela Ihrman, Martin Kaltwasser, Agnieszka Kurant, Joar Nango, Vitjítua Ndjiharine, The Playground Project, Tomás Saraceno, Mariana Telleria, The School of Mutants, Irad Verkron, Raul Walch

"Radical Playgrounds" invites adults and children to events, performances, talks, guided tours and workshops and shifts the focus from competition to collaboration. To explore the socio-political implication of play, international speakers discuss the interactive installations in weekly discussions on site. In construction workshop, the parcours will evolve as a public meeting space over the course of eleven weeks. The project is being realised architecturally by raumlaborberlin.

"Radical Playgrounds" is a project commissioned by Berliner Festspiele, funded by the EURO 2024 Football & Culture Foundation, and the German Federal Government on the basis of a resolution passed by the German Bundestag with funding from the Capital Cultural Fund (HKF).
